Letter from the Board of Directors

Dear Friends,

As the Amazing Maasai Girls Project (AMGP) enters into Year 3 of operations, it is with pleasure that we present this report to our donors, sponsors, supporters, volunteers and friends.

About AMGP

The AMGP was founded as a U.S.-based 501c3 non-profit organisation in 2011, with the mission to fund the secondary school education of girls from the various Maasai villages that surround the town of Kimanjo in Laikipia North, Kenya. Specifically, the scholarship fund supports academically high-achieving and dedicated girls whose parents would otherwise be unable to afford school fees, and sponsors girls to attend one of three schools in Laikipia North: St. Francis Girls Secondary School (boarding school), Kimanjo Mixed Secondary School (day school), and Il-Polei Secondary School (day school).

Amazing Maasai Ultra

The main fundraising platform of the AMGP is currently the Amazing Maasai Ultra, Kenya's only ultra marathon - also based among the Maasai communities of Laikipia North. Through our annual 21km half marathon, 42km full marathon, and 75km ultra marathon, more than USD$60,000 has been raised from proceeds of the 2011 and 2012 races, sponsorship of its participants, and contributions of our donors.

While the Amazing Maasai Ultra is a predominantly community-based event, it has attracted runners from more than 18 countries and literally hundreds of generous sponsors from even further afield. As a result, 28 girls, known as the Amazing Girls, are currently with four-year scholarships to one of the three mentioned secondary schools. There are 19 girls who started high school in January 2012 on scholarships following the inaugural race in June 2011, and are currently in Form 2 (sophomore year). Another 9 girls started Form 1 (fresh year) in February 2013 on scholarships following the second race in September 2012.

Update from our Amazing Girls

On September 2nd, 2013, Board Members Sarah Edson and Paul Ark spent time in Kimanjo with the sponsored girls. The following pages include updates from 26 out of the 28 girls in attendance (two live too remotely to have attended). We hope that their words can offer our donors and friends insight into the direct way they are helping our Amazing Girls, who may otherwise have been married at 14 or 15 years of age. The gratitude felt by each of them is evident across their words. It was also encouraging to hear so many of them vocalise ambitions to continue their studies at university, and to have careers and independence as adults. This, from children as young as just 12, is testament to how much education is valued as the only path to improving their prospects and those of their families and wider communities.

The Amazing Maasai Ultra 2013

The ultra marathon continues to be the main fundraising platform for AMGP, and Year 3 of the race will take place on September 28th 2013. We very much hope that this year's race will continue to build awareness of the importance of educating girls from financially disadvantaged Maasai communities, enabling them to voice a resounding "no" to childhood marriage and motherhood, and to have the choice to pursue higher education or employment as adults.

100% of all donations, sponsorship and proceeds of each year's race goes to the scholarship fund, and it is our hope to raise enough in 2013 to send a third intake of girls to secondary school in 2014. If you would like to contribute to changing the futures of more talented young ladies, we wholeheartedly welcome any support through our online fundraising page (click here to go to the fundraising page).

On behalf of the Board of Directors of the AMGP and all our Amazing Girls, we hope you find this report educational and thank you for your continued support.

Meet the Amazing Girls

The following pages are words written by 26 of the 28 girls sponsored through the Amazing Maasai Girls Project.

As a brief forward, it is worth emphasising that most of the girls sponsored by AMGP come from extremely poor backgrounds; they are often one in a family of 6 or 7 children; many of the girls' parents are unemployed, have chronic illnesses, or have already passed away. Further, as females in traditional Maasai culture, it is not uncommon that they receive limited to no support or encouragement to pursue secondary education. After all, the marriage dowry for a girl is typically worth 10+ cows and plenty of extras (goats, blankets, sugar etc.) to the family. To achieve even half-decent grades when faced with such obstacles at home is therefore no small feat. Nevertheless, these girls do so with quiet determination and dignity. They truly want to succeed, and find a way out of poverty for themselves, their families and their communities.

The selection process to award the scholarships is straightforward: the heads of local primary schools first identify girls who are academically high-achieving but financially-needy. These girls are then invited to apply for the 4-year scholarships and interview with a panel comprised of the local academic board, community leaders, and Solomon "Solo" Kimani, the Amazing Maasai Girls Project's local representative, who also manages the scholarship fund locally and mentors the girls. The girls who have passed the interview process in 2011 and 2012 have all done so as a result of hard work and determination, both at primary school and in the selection process itself; it is not uncommon for a student to walk 15km each way to attend these interviews, and even these words they had written for this report were in English, their third language after Maa and Swahili. As their words demonstrate, they continue to work hard as they gain the confidence in themselves to dream of a future greater than their parents could give.

We are very proud of and inspired by our Amazing Girls, and have no doubt you will be too.

Nancy Murijoh

St. Francis Girls Secondary School, Form 1

Grades in last exams: B+

Target grade for next exams: A-

Favourite subject at school, and why?

Biology, because it's an enjoyable and understandable subject. Also it teaches more about human life.

What changes have you seen in yourself since you started secondary school?

How to be in secondary school creates more changes in human life. Firstly one learns to be diplomat and have respect for everyone. Also working together as a group than before.

Future dreams?

My future dream as a Maasai girl is to work hard, achieve all my goals and help this community of ours which was backwards for a long time.

What is your current home life like?

Surely when I talked about my home life I have more to say: my parents are both illiterate but like taking their children to school. They like educating their children but due to school fees they fail.

Anything you would like to tell your sponsors, who live in different countries across the world?

First is to thank them for their scholarship. Also I would like to tell them to continued assisting these Maasai girls and educating them for they need a lot of assisting.

Pamela Nancy Maiyani

Grades in last exams: B
Target grade for next exams: A- and above

Favourite subject at school, and why?

Chemistry - because I use to understand it well, also it helps me to know about chemical and it reals me to my career being a surgeon.

What changes have you seen in yourself since you started secondary school?

I know to speak fluent English. I know to answer questions according to my thinking, not like primary school when you are given choices.

Future dreams?

I want to be a surgeon to help my family and help needed people.

What is your current home life like?

We are about a family of seven children, mother and father. My parents are not at work. Nobody in my family is work.

Anything you would like to tell your sponsors, who live in different countries across the world?

I would thank them for paying my school fees, and may God bless them and to continue enlarging the pocket. And I promise them never to let them down in my studies.

Pamela Nemauso

Grades in last exams: A-

Target grade for next exams: A

Favourite subject at school, and why?

Biology is my favourite subject because it help me to target on my career, which is being a surgeon.

What changes have you seen in yourself since you started secondary school?

My change is that in Education I have known many things which I was not actually knowing and I'm also having dreams, vision and hope towards my future life.

Future dreams?

I want to be an honoured and respected girl in our community and also to help my fellow girls know the importance of education.

What is your current home life like?

In our home we are seven in number: both parents, and I have three brothers and one sister. I'm the first born, the other sister and brothers are in their primary school level. My father has no any job, same to mum, both are working as shepherds so that we can get our basic needs.

Anything you would like to tell your sponsors, who live in different countries across the world?

I just request them to continue supporting and helping the other girls, especially in the Maasai land, for we have been loosing a lot for we had no education to fulfill our dreams so we end up losing hopes. But we know who we are at least for we have moral and do our level best.

Samaria Monto
